Coaches Bryant Brigham and Paul Mitchell give their Pee Wees, the "Tigers," a constructive pep talk during practice at the Hilton Head Plantation ball field.

"My husband and I have been everything from coaches, to president of Dixie Youth," Anderson said. "We know baseball."

Her oldest son, Tosh, is a freshman at Hilton Head High School, where they recently built some great amenities for fans. For the first time since the field was built, fans have running water and bleachers.

"When the (children) get older and you don't have the luxury of just dropping them off at Crossings (Park), you kind of have to pick and choose where to spend your time," Anderson said. "For instance, during any given week, we will have a middle school double header, a varsity home game, and the youngest has practice."

Lynne and David Anderson have one boy, Riggs, 6, who plays Dixie Youth; Ian, who is in seventh grade, plays for the middle school team; and the oldest is on the varsity squad at the high school. The Andersons also have a daughter, Grace, 9, who plays on a traveling soccer team.

"I'm looking forward to my teenager driving," Lynne Anderson said. "It's all about transportation."

For the past 11 years, ever since Tosh was old enough to play, Lynne Anderson and her husband have played a very active role in the Dixie Youth Organization. Whether it was baseball, soccer or golf, Lynne Anderson said her children would have been a part of some sport, but they excelled at baseball.

"Our family philosophy is, if it wasn't baseball, we'll do something," she said. "I don't want the teenagers hanging out too much. We're not doing the mall."
