

The Life Alert, a combination smoke alarm and flashlight.

that even the simplest of precautions can save your life. Whether you want full camera surveillance for your home or you just need a few tips on how to stay safe, keeping your home and family protected are essential no matter where you live.

Technology-free tips

- Lock your doors! Even if you feel your neighborhood, or apartment complex is safe, lock your doors.
- Never allow children to answer the door.
- Keep your residence well lit even when you are home. A dark house is inviting to burglars. Leaving a few lights on throughout the night will make it appear as though you are awake and someone is there. If you go on vacation, have someone check on your house occasionally and pick up your mail and newspapers. Or call your local postal service and newspaper to have them hold your mail until you get back. A pile of newspapers and mail could be a sign to a burglar that no one is home.
- Do not leave windows open at night and close the blinds or drapes completely. A burglar may be watching you and be able to see what valuables you have in your home.

- Take care of your yard. Mow the grass. Tall grass may indicate that no one currently resides there or that you are away on vacation.

“Keep the trees and shrubbery around your home well trimmed. Overgrown bushes and trees often provide excellent hiding places for criminals. Plant defensive shrubbery around your home, especially beneath windows. Bushes that have thorns or stiff spiky leaves deter criminals,” said Robert Siciliano, author of “The Safety Minute: 01: How to be safe in the streets, at home, and abroad so you can save your life!”
