

Getting there

Most of the major airlines such as British Airways, Continental, Delta, KLM, Northwest, TWA, and United fly to Amsterdam's airport, Schipol (www.schipol.nl). Nonstop flights are available from Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, Memphis, Miami, Minneapolis, New York, Orlando, San Francisco, Seattle, and Washington D.C. Car rental companies are located in the airport; however, if you are just traveling to Amsterdam, you might be better off taking a taxi to the city, and either walking, biking or riding canal buses. The roads are not car-friendly. Buses and trams area also available.

Where to stay

Amsterdam offers many wonderful places to stay, from quaint inns to grand hotels. The Renaissance Hotel, for example, is a popular facility that offers well-appointed rooms, many amenities and attentive service. Located on a quiet street in downtown, it is only a four- or five-minute walk away from Central Station, with its high-speed link to Schiphol International Airport, and ideally situated for accessing all of Amsterdam's attractions. The concierge is available all day and is most efficient at arranging reservations for theatres, tours, travel and more. For more information regarding the Renaissance Hotel, please visit <http://www.renaissancehotels.com/amsrd>. ## Additional information

- You will need a current passport to enter the country.
  - Amsterdam is six hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time.
  - Currency is the euro; $1 = .81 euro
  - Major credit cards are accepted in most places, but be sure to ask.
- Happy travels! □
